Superintendent and school board is committed to FCTC.
Programs to pause, build and explore.
Engagement and feedback.

Minutes will be taken for archive purposes.

Brian question for input.
Cathy explains how input will work.

FCTC update--we are 5 months into being a district school, currently bringing under the district and the supporting roles of departments
Staff development available,
HR to support
Rebuild of the financial side of the house.
Chris has looked in the curriculum and supporting teachers.
Structure will hopefully be announced before the Christmas break.

Arleen thinks that it has been fabulous, integrity, exciting, we are a little anxious still until everything is settled.

Wakilah, this has been adventure. I have no regrets and feel privileged to be a part of the history. Embraced the change. Community message, we are now proud to be a part of the district.

Brian was familiar from 1986, was not swayed by news, perception vs. reality
From the community and new understanding of how this run.

Doug, FCTC, became a tech center a long time ago, away from Palatka, clay putnam and St. Johns

911 example, nursing, culinary, building bridges, huge impact on the area
Fire Fighting was 500 plus at the time, Black Friday with the cars in the parking lot, 10% of all car dealers, designers, engineers and admin, 90% built the cars

Brian describes the pride of doing what he wants to do, welding, his kids will find their passion, need a better message to go to the community

Arleen helped to establish Career Showcase, hands on activity, short term program, little or no debt, millennial wants the experience. We can be excited about the pathway into a career

We have just over 550 students, there is much room for growth, conversation about mental health, behavior unit
Brian-80% of patient load to handle behavior unit issues--mental health conversation

SAC survey, bank of questions, students, employees, community --February is when the survey will go out and add some strategic questions.

Doug said it is encouraging to hear about the enrollment and now where to build from. We want to have more positive changes! Vision for smooth transition to re-establish the direction.

Kathy Currington will set up the next meeting.
